A Letter from Tom

January 6, 2010

Dear Citizens of Virginia's Fifth District,

I am honored to serve you. As my first year of service in Congress comes to a close, I offer this summary report of what we have done to help the families and businesses in Virginia's 5th district, including a county-by-county breakdown of our efforts.

I pledged to work a double shift in Congress—as many of my constituents do just to make ends meet—and focus each day on jobs and improving the lives of people in the 5th district. In my first few weeks on the job, I toured all 22 localities, meeting with county administrators, economic development professionals, and business leaders to gather ideas for revitalizing the 5th district. Since then, I have been home to the district every weekend, putting over 23,000 miles on my truck as I travelled to meet regularly with the people I represent. I am proud that so many of you attended our listening tours, with over 35,000 citizens participating in our town halls, tele-town halls, and “Tom in your Town” sessions this year. We have been able to accomplish so much because of the ideas, opinions and suggestions offered by people throughout our communities.

While important policy debates about health care and energy independence have dominated the headlines, our office has focused a great deal of our efforts on economic development and quality of life improvements in our communities. The result has been over $300 million in investment in Central and Southside Virginia during a single year through policy, federally directed funds, competitive grants and any other opportunity we could use to support economic development. These include major investments in our public schools and law enforcement at a time when local officials might otherwise have had to raise property taxes or cut teachers and police officers. We have worked hard to ensure transparency in our efforts, to focus on the areas of greatest need, and to prioritize investments in our region's competitive advantage over one-time expenditures.

In conjunction with these investments, I have focused on reforms that benefit families in our district. While many in Washington responded to the financial crisis with handouts to the very banks that helped create this meltdown, I fought for the families and businesses in small towns across our district and our nation. I authored and supported policy changes that stem from conversations in kitchens back home, not with corporate interest groups in Washington. My first week in office, I authored a $2,500 tuition tax credit with an emphasis on community college students. Based on conversations with veterans in our communities, I wrote an amendment that became law supporting family caregivers of disabled veterans. Hearing from so many about the predatory practices of credit card companies, I helped to pass a major effort to hold these companies to basic standards of fairness, including a rule I wrote that would lock in any teaser rates for at least six months. Based on my belief that service in all of its forms makes our nation, our community, and our souls stronger, I was proud to be a lead supporter of the Serve America act, with a particular emphasis on opportunities for senior citizens, veterans, and high school students to become more involved. These are just a few examples of how my many conversations in the district inspired legislation, listed in this report, that I believe will improve the lives of families in the 5th district.

One year into my term, I am proud of the work we have done to bring serious investment to our area, saving jobs and supporting the local economy during a brutal recession. I have worked hard to be present in the community, transparent in our funding requests, and focused as much as possible on game-changing investments rather than symbolic expenditures.

I would like to thank all of my constituents who have taken the time to voice opinions, share suggestions, and be engaged. It has not all been work, either. Many of you have welcomed me into your homes and churches, asked me to speak at your Eagle Scout ceremonies, let me walk down pit row at Martinsville Speedway, hit the lake at the Bassmaster Classic, speak to your graduating high school and community college classes, play volleyball at your fire department picnics, and even offered me homemade cookies along the way. I feel blessed to be in a position to serve you and, whether or not we agree on policy issues, to work with you to increase jobs and quality of life in our communities. Your kindness and engagement have meant a great deal to me.

I am proud of the work we have done and results we have produced, but I am not nearly satisfied. I look forward now to what we can accomplish together in year two.

Blessings,

Economic Development for Virginia

Our recovery from this economic crisis depends on three key ingredients: support for small businesses to grow and thrive, workforce development, and shoring up our infrastructure in Southside and Central Virginia. In the 111th Congress, I have been supportive of policies that alleviate the economic burdens small businesses face as well as those policies that ensure rural areas are not left behind as new technologies are deployed. I wrote a bill—H.R. 3627, the Rural and Small Town Telework Tax Credit Act of 2009—that would give a tax credit of $1,000 to businesses for telework employees in rural and small town America. I am committed to renewing the flow of credit as we come out of this recession, and to make sure that access to credit does not spiral into abnormally high debt. That is why I co-sponsored H.R. 3457, the Small Business Credit Card Act of 2009, which would give small businesses the same protections that individuals received under the Credit Cardholders' Bill of Rights Act of 2009, and H.R. 4067, the Business Checking Fairness Act of 2009, which would repeal a law that prevents small businesses from earning interest on their business accounts. I am also committed to bolstering American manufacturing by making permanent the tax credit for research and development. This would allow for businesses to plan in the long term and make the investments necessary for America to stay at the cutting edge of new technology.

Additionally, I am pleased to have been appointed to the House Democratic Caucus' Congressional Task Force on Job Creation, which will be creating economic initiatives in 2010 to promote job creation. The task force will focus on bringing new and innovative ideas to the table that will create jobs and restore America's competitive advantage in emerging sectors, for example, the clean-energy industry.

BILLS INTRODUCED

- 9/22/09: H.R. 3627, the Rural and Small Town Telework Tax Credit Act of 2009. This legislation would give a tax credit of $1,000 to businesses for telework employees in rural and small town America defined as non-metro/non-micro areas, micropolitan areas, and metropolitan area under 200,000 in population. (Link to Press Release)

SELECTION OF BILLS CO-SPONSORED

- 4/21/09: H.R. 1552, the Small Business Formation and Job Creation Act, which would increase the amount allowed as a deduction for start-up expenditures to help new small businesses from $5,000 to $20,000. The National Federation of Independent Business is supportive of this legislation. Brad Close, vice president of federal public policy, NFIB, said of Congressman Perriello's endorsement of the bill: "It's encouraging to know that Congressman Perriello realizes how costly starting a small business can be for entrepreneurs. Funding and cash flow are often one of the main roadblocks in starting a new business. By passing H.R. 1552, Congress would help ease the financial burden facing many new small business owners during their expensive first years in business." (Link to Press Release)
- 5/21/09: Cosponsored H.R. 1545, which would amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to make the credit for research activities permanent and provide an increase in such credit for taxpayers whose gross receipts come predominantly from domestic production activities.
- 7/26/09: Cosponsored H.R. 2936, the Bill to Underwrite Increased Lending to Domestic (BUILD) Manufacturing Act, which would provide qualified manufacturers increased access to private capital through a government-backed loan guarantee program. This bill has been endorsed by the National Association of Manufacturers, the Association for Manufacturing Technology, the American Small Manufacturers Coalition, and the Tooling and Manufacturing Association.
- 7/28/09: H.R. 3178, the Small Business Growth Act, to create a qualified real property deduction allowing a business to deduct up to $125,000 of those costs immediately. This covers capital improvements such as a new roof or an addition to an existing structure. Only businesses with gross receipts of less than $5 million for the past three years qualify. The National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) is supportive of this legislation.
- 7/31/09: H.R. 3457, the Small Business Credit Card Act of 2009. The bill would amend the Truth in Lending Act to provide coverage under such Act for credit cards issued to small businesses, ensuring that small businesses with credit cards are given the same protections as consumers.

- 9/22/09: H.R. 3615, Home Office Tax Deduction and Simplification Act. The bill would simplify the various deductions for small businesses and allow a standard deduction of $1,500 for home office expenses. The National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) is supportive of this legislation.
- 11/18/09: H.R. 1613, the Made in America Act of 2009, which would promote American manufacturing by (1) making permanent the tax credit for increasing research activities; (2) increasing to 20% the rate of the alternative simplified tax credit for research expenses; (3) making permanent the increased expensing allowance for depreciable business property; and (4) reducing to 30% the maximum income tax rate for corporations.
- 12/3/09: H.R. 4067, the Business Checking Fairness Act of 2009. The bill would repeal a law that prevents small businesses from earning interest on their business accounts. The National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) is supportive of this legislation. Language similar to H.R. 4067 was included in H.R. 4173, the Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act of 2009, but Congressman Perriello voted against that bill because of other provisions that would have created an undue regulatory burden on community banks and because of remaining loopholes in the regulation of the derivatives market.

LETTERS CO-SIGNED

- 7/15/09: Signed onto a letter from Congressmen Bartlett and Mollohan to the Small Business Chairwoman Nydia M. Velazquez urging her to support the HUBZone program and work closely with the Small Business Administration to eliminate all waste, fraud, and abuse from the HUBZone program.

He outlined the importance of ensuring that small businesses, the dynamic engine of our economy, are not left behind in the conduct of new breakthrough research.

Economic Relief for Working Families

This economic downturn has been particularly hard on working families who are struggling to keep the lights on, put food on the table, and afford the skyrocketing cost of medicine. The surest way to economic success for our district is to make sure our citizens can get and keep jobs that help them support their families. Particularly in this economic climate, my top priority has been to support working families by promoting policies that produce good paying jobs with secure benefits for Southside and Central Virginia. I supported the American Reinvestment and Recovery Act, which provided one of the largest middle-class tax cuts in history. This bill also contained “Buy American” provisions to help protect our manufacturing jobs. I also supported legislation to protect consumers from unfair practices of credit card companies, and predatory lenders. Two of my first votes in office were in support of the Lilly Ledbetter Fair Pay Act and the Paycheck Fairness Act. These two bills, signed into law by President Obama on January 29, 2009, will help protect working Virginians and ensure that women receive equal pay for equal work. I have also fought against an unfair extension of unemployment benefits that would not benefit Virginia, forcing a change in legislation to extend unemployment benefits for all states and providing support for those in job transition. I support and will continue to support a new direction on trade to protect good paying manufacturing jobs.

BILLS INTRODUCED

- 4/30/09: Perriello Amendment to H.R.627, the Credit Cardholders' Bill of Rights Act of 2009, which requires a 6-month period for a promotional rate for credit cards before the standard rate may be increased. The amendment was agreed to and has been signed into law. (YouTube clip of Congressman Perriello explaining his amendment)

SELECTION OF BILLS CO-SPONSORED

- 1/6/09: H.R. 11, the Lilly Ledbetter Fair Pay Act of 2009, which would amend title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, and H.R. 12, the Paycheck Fairness Act. Both bills were among the first voted on in the 111th Session of the House of Representatives.
- 6/24/09: H.R. 3012, the Trade Reform, Accountability, Development and Employment (TRADE) Act. The bill represents a new way forward on reforming trade negotiations and renegotiating past trade agreements to include environmental and labor standards. (Link to Press Release) (YouTube clip of Congressman Perriello at press conference) (YouTube clip of Q&A)
- 10/7/09: H.R. 3756, Unemployment Compensation Extension Act of 2009, which would amend the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2008, to provide for additional weeks of emergency unemployment benefits for all states. Congressman Perriello was an original cosponsor of this legislation following his vote against a bill that would extend unemployment benefits for only half the states, not including Virginia. The Senate would later incorporate many of Congressman Perriello’s proposals into their unemployment extension act. (Link to Press Release)
- 10/29/09: H.R. 2378, the Currency Reform for Fair Trade Act. The bill amends the Tariff Act of 1930 to require the administering authority to: (1) determine, based on certain requirements, whether the exchange rate of the currency of an exporting country is fundamentally and actionably undervalued or overvalued (misaligned) against the U.S.

dollar for an 18-month period; and (2) take certain actions under a countervailing duty or antidumping duty proceeding to offset such misalignment in cases of an affirmative determination. This bill is specifically designed to address China's misalignment of its currency in order to exacerbate the trade deficit the US has with China. Multiple business groups, including the National Council of Textile Organizations, have organized in support of the bill through the Fair Currency Coalition. The AFL-CIO is also supportive.

- 12/16/09: H.R. 4300, Restoring America's Commitment to Consumers Act of 2009, which would cap interest rates for credit cards at 16 percent. All non-up-front fees not included in the cap, such as late fees or insufficient funds fees, are capped at $15.00 per fee. The bill's provisions will not supersede any state law with lower usury caps.

LETTERS CO-SIGNED

- 6/4/09: Signed onto a letter to President Obama asking for the "Buy American" waivers in the Recovery Act to be posted online. Congressman Perriello is a strong supporter of "Buy American" provisions and believes exemptions to these provisions should be made public.

KEY VOTES

- 1/9/09: On the final passage of H.R. 12, the Paycheck Fairness Act, which would amend the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 to provide more effective remedies to victims of discrimination in the payment of wages on the basis of sex. Voted yes.
- 1/9/09: On the final passage of H.R. 11, the Lilly Ledbetter Fair Pay Act of 2009, which would amend title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, and to modify the operation of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1990 and the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, to clarify that a discriminatory compensation decision or other practice that is unlawful under such Acts occurs each time compensation is paid pursuant to the discriminatory compensation decision or other practice. Congressman Perriello was a cosponsor and voted yes.
- 1/27/09: On final passage of S. 181, the Lilly Ledbetter Fair Pay Act of 2009 with the Paycheck Fairness Act attached and other Senate modifications. Voted yes.

- 2/13/09: On final passage of the conference report for H.R. 1, the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act. Voted yes because of his strong support for increased investment in job-creating programs to turn the economy around and avoid another Great Depression.
- 4/30/09: On final passage of H.R. 627, the Credit Cardholders Bill of Rights Act of 2009, which would create new protections for consumers facing excessive credit card fees, sky-high interest rates, and unfair, incomprehensible credit card company agreements. Voted yes. (Link to Press Release)

- 5/7/09: On final passage of H.R. 1728, the Mortgage Reform and Anti-Predatory Lending Act. The bill would help ensure that lenders only make loans that borrowers would be able to repay and avoid the types of mortgages that led to the recent housing and foreclosure crisis. Voted yes. (Link to Press Release)
- 9/22/09: On the motion to suspend the rules and pass H.R. 3548, the Unemployment Compensation Extension Act of 2009, which would extend unemployment benefits only in states with unemployment rates over 8.5%. Virginia has a low statewide unemployment rate, but localities in the 5th district such as Martinsville and Danville continue to struggle. Voted no on this unfair extension.
- 11/4/09: On the Sutton of Ohio Amendment No. 4 to H.R. 3639, the Expedited CARD Reform for Consumers Act of 2009. This amendment prevents the closure of a credit card account in response to the imposition of a new fee from negatively impacting a consumer's credit report or credit score. Voted yes.

This amendment imposes a moratorium on increasing annual percentage rates, fees and finance charges, as well as a moratorium on changing the terms for repayment of outstanding balances on credit card accounts, for nine months after enactment of the bill. Voted yes.
- 11/4/09: On final passage of H.R. 3639, the Expedited CARD Reform for Consumers Act of 2009. This bill would move up the effective date of the Credit Card Accountability Responsibility and Disclosure Act of 2009. Voted yes.
- 11/5/09: On motion that the House suspend the rules and agree to the Senate amendment to H.R. 3548, the Worker, Homeownership, and Business Assistance Act of 2009, which would extend unemployment benefits in all states and both extend and expand the homebuyer's tax credit. Voted yes as the bill reflected changes he had proposed to extend unemployment benefits in all states.

Veterans Affairs

As a public official, the most sacred way I can serve my country is to make sure our troops are given a clear path to victory, that they are adequately supplied in battle, and that they are well taken care of as veterans. In the 111th Congress, we have achieved the largest budget increase for the Veterans Administration ever and one of the top legislative priorities for the leading Veterans Service Organizations: the Veterans Healthcare Budget Reform and Transparency Act of 2009 to give the VA advanced appropriations for medical care. As a proud member of the Veterans Affairs Committee, I've worked hard to ensure our troops get the education and job opportunities they deserve when they return home. I have introduced and pushed legislation to expand education and employment opportunities and to improve health coverage for veterans and their families. I have introduced several bills and amendments benefitting veterans, including legislation to increase on-the-job training benefits for veterans. My work helped pass legislation to increase health care benefits for individuals who serve as primary caregivers of severely disabled veterans. I have created a 5th district Veterans Advisory Board, representing conflicts past and present, who have been invaluable in informing my work on the Committee. I thank them for their service. And to ensure the economic sustainability of a crucial monument in our district, I introduced and passed legislation to start the process of transferring the National D-Day Memorial in Bedford over to the National Park Service.

National D-Day Memorial in Bedford, VA

Under the ANS, the list of covered contracts would include telephone, internet, cable and certain utility services that are not available in the new assigned duty station. Status: ANS agreed to be voice voted and further incorporated into H.R. 2696. (H.R. 2696 was later included as a provision of H.R. 3949 (Veterans' Small Business Assistance and Service members Protection Act of 2009), which was passed by the House on 11/3/09.)
- 10/8/09: Introduced: Amendment in the Nature of a Substitute (ANS) to H.R. 2874, Helping Active Duty Deployed Act of 2009, which amends the Service members Civil Relief Act to add a cellular phone provision for family plans. As written, this bill (before the amendment) would allow service members to cancel their phone contract if they were to be deployed or received permanent change of station; however, cancelling their family phone contract would also cancel services for all family members even if they remain in their current residence where service is provided. Status: ANS agreed to by voice vote and further incorporated into H.R. 2874. (H.R. 2874 was later included as a provision of H.R. 3949 (Veterans' Small Business Assistance and Service members Protection Act of 2009), which was passed by the House on 11/3/09.)

Energy Independence

Energy independence is our best chance to reemploy Americans and rebuild our nation's competitive advantage; it is about national security and keeping our hard-earned money out of countries that hate us; and it is about prioritizing our nation's economic future over oil company profiteering. For decades we have known that our national security depends on addressing America's reliance on oil. For a generation, Americans have had no choice when they go to the gas pump but to send their hard-earned dollars overseas to petro-dictators who are enemies of our great nation. In voting for the American Clean Energy and Security (ACES) bill, I voted to shift those dollars from our enemies to our industries back home. This bill gives us a competitive advantage over China, India, and other competitors in the race towards the next generation of energy technology. For two generations, both parties have talked about energy independence; but when it came time to set our energy policy, government would prioritize powerful oil interests and foreign despots ahead of American independence.

When it comes to jobs, Southside and Central Virginia will be among the biggest regional winners of a new clean energy economy. Put simply, the energy we can produce in our region wins under this bill, and the energy our enemies produce loses. Biofuels, nuclear energy, and other alternative energy sources provide tremendous potential for job creation in our region. In my travels around the district, I have seen these opportunities firsthand: a landfill that could convert captured methane gas into energy; poultry and dairy farmers who can turn manure and waste into power; a closed-loop biodiesel system that grows, makes, and sells its own fuels. We can convert former tobacco farms into biomass producers and turn farm and municipal waste into power. This bill, particularly the elements negotiated by those of us from rural districts, will spur investments in the 5th District and ease our transition into the clean energy economy. When we go to the pump now, 93 cents of every dollar goes straight out of the community, and most goes to oil companies and foreign powers. We have the technology right in Southside to produce fuel that flips that equation – 93 cents of every dollar will stay right in the community.

- 3/26/09: H.R. 1158, the Biogas Production Incentive Act of 2009, to encourage the production of biogas from the manure of livestock and other sources. One company in Chatham, VA, would benefit from this incentive and could encourage more farms in the 5th District to use this technology.

The bill extends and expands five key energy efficiency incentives for the construction of a new home, retrofitting an existing one, upgrading commercial properties to conserve energy and cut energy costs, and assisting consumers seeking assessments of home energy usage. The National Association of Home Builders is supportive of the bill.

Health Care

I firmly believe that every American should have access to quality, affordable health care and the key to this must be competition and accountability. Small business owners and middle-class families should have the same negotiating ability as the largest companies and the federal government has. For these reasons, I supported the House version of the Affordable Health Care for America Act of 2009, because it will make quality health care accessible to over 50,000 currently uninsured residents in the 5th district and close the Medicare 'donut hole' for prescription drugs. It is unacceptable that our elderly should ever have to choose between buying medicine and putting food on the table, or that our small businesses should be burdened with skyrocketing health care costs that put them at a disadvantage to their competitors in other countries. I support policies that ensure the effective administration of Medicare and Medicaid and that reward, not punish, employers who provide health care to their employees. I am also committed to providing coverage for all our nation's children, and in my first month in office I voted for H.R. 2, the State Children's Health Insurance Program (SCHIP) Reauthorization Act of 2009, which will cover 11 million children. The SCHIP reauthorization also includes coverage for 55,000 additional Virginia children of working parents through a program that targets working families who are climbing their way out of poverty, who make too much to qualify for Medicaid but not enough to afford private insurance. These are families doing everything right to better their lives, and they deserve to be able to provide health care to their children.

BILLS INTRODUCED OR LETTERS AUTHORED

- 11/16/09: Sponsored H.R. 4078, the Long Term Care Insurance Disclosure Act of 2009, a bill to require the Secretary of Health and Human Services to develop a national model disclosure form to assist consumers in purchasing long-term care insurance.

The key points expressed in the letter included: (1) Protecting Medicare and ensuring the solvency of the Medicare Trust Fund, (2) Ensuring 100% deficit neutrality and lower cost from CBO, (3) Increased competition across state lines, (4) Reducing litigation, medical error and overutilization, (5) Protecting small business, (4) Increasing preventive care and wellness programs, and (5) Ensuring that every American has the option to purchase the same level of health benefits made available to Members of Congress. We were successful in adding many of these modifications to the House version of the health care bill. (Link to Press Release)

- 10/25/09: Letter authored and transmitted to the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) at the request of the National Association of Independent Medical Equipment Suppliers (NAIMES) requesting that CMS conduct an assessment into how newly implemented bonding requirements are disadvantaging small locally owned durable medical equipment suppliers.

- 11/7/09 H. R. 3962: Affordable Health Care for America Act. Voted yes because he believes that our health care system is in desperate need of reform. This landmark legislation will provide access to quality affordable health care to over 50,000 residents in the 5th district, help rein in the skyrocketing cost of health care premiums, reduce the crushing burden of health care cost on small business, preserve and enhance Medicare for seniors, and help strengthen our rural hospitals. (Link to Press Release)
- 11/19/09 H.R. 3961: Medicare Physician Payment Reform Act of 2009. Voted yes because he knew that a 21% cut in physician reimbursement under the Medicare program would have had a detrimental effect on 5th district seniors. Congressman Perriello believes the current system of physician reimbursement under the Medicare program is unsustainable. Physicians and their patients deserve a system of reimbursement that is fair and predictable. By replacing the existing physician payment formula completely, H.R. 3961 provides a responsible approach to reform, one that will fairly reimburse doctors for their expertise while holding down health care cost.

OTHER

- Congressman Perriello has been highly visible and engaged in the area of health care.
 - Conducted 21 town halls in August

- Held numerous in person and telephone conference calls with 5th district doctors, nurses, allied health professionals and hospital administrators.

Education and Career Training

A well-trained workforce is critical to renewing the 5th district’s competitive advantage in the global marketplace; and education for this workforce begins with ensuring that all children receive a quality education. This starts with ensuring high-quality early education in rural areas, making college and community college more affordable, and expanding access to vocational and skills training. Shortly after being sworn in, I co-authored the American Opportunity Tax Credit, which was signed into law. This new tax credit provides immediate relief to Americans struggling to finance their higher education by providing a tax credit of up to $2,500 of the cost of tuition and related expenses. I support increased funding for vocational programs, training facilities, and our great community colleges. I am also committed to reforming the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, commonly known as No Child Left Behind (NCLB) in this next year, and I look forward to working with the innovative school superintendents in the 5th district as we put policies in place that will broaden and improve education for children in rural areas.

Fiscal Responsibility

Balancing the budget is crucial to our nation's ongoing financial health. Even in these difficult economic times, as we boost the economy to stimulate spending, we must be vigilant about the deficit we are creating for our children. In Congress, I have been fighting for balanced budgets and a return to the Pay-As-You-Go (PAY-GO) policies that helped balanced the budget during the 1990s and produced a record surplus. That is why I voted against the President's budget and opposed several appropriations bills. We cannot sustain these excessive levels of spending; during the passage of H.R. 2920 to restore PAY-GO requirements, I was one of only five Democrats to support the Republican substitute proposal that would have instituted discretionary spending caps to control spending increases. I also am an original cosponsor of H.R. 2920, which would reinstitute the requirement of budget neutrality on new tax and mandatory spending legislation. I also firmly opposed the $700 billion bailout to banks, although I was not yet a member of Congress and unable to vote on the legislation. In January 2009, however, I voted to block the second $350 billion in bailout money to Wall Street. Especially in a recession, it is our duty to support Main Street, not Wall Street, and I do not think the government should have bailed out the entities that caused the financial meltdown in the first place.

SELECTION OF BILLS CO-SPONSORED

Transparency and Accountability

The only way for government to engender trust in its people is to be a model of transparency in which the special interests do not control public officials' voting records. When private interests contribute to members of Congress for personal gain, I believe that is corruption. In Congress, I have fought to strengthen ethics rules and hold lobbyists and politicians accountable for their financial deals. I have voted against my party multiple times in support of investigating ties between illegal contributions and earmarking by powerful members of the Appropriations Committee. In my own earmark process for 2010, I posted all of my requests online as a sign of support for transparency; I also included guidelines on how projects were chosen to make certain my criteria are transparent to the public. I was an original cosponsor of H.R. 2038, the Clean Law for Earmark Accountability Reform (CLEAR) Act, which would prohibit House members from accepting campaign contributions from executives or lobbyists for businesses and then sponsoring earmarks for those entities in the same election cycle. I have also voted to delay consideration of important pieces of legislation so that sufficient time is given for the bill's text to be posted online for the public to read. Government must take seriously its role in strengthening our democratic process, and we can only do that by giving people a voice in that process. I look forward to continuing my work in this area in the coming year.

BILLS INTRODUCED

- 4/22/09: Introduction of H.R. 2048, the Clean Law for Earmark Accountability Reform (CLEAR) Act, which would prohibit Members of Congress from taking campaign contributions from companies, including their senior executives and lobbyists, on whose behalf they have requested earmarks. - 5/13/09: H.R. 1207: the Audit the Fed Bill. This bill would reduce the restrictions on the Comptroller General auditing the Federal Reserve and require an audit by the end of 2010. It has received broad bipartisan support.

- 7/27/09: Signed onto a letter to Chairman Ben Bernanke asking for an explanation for the special treatment of Goldman Sachs. Goldman Sachs has been granted a temporary exemption from the standard bank holding company Market Risk Rules, allowing the company to continue operating as if it were an investment bank. This enables them to take advantage of new government subsidies but still engage in risky practices.

National Security

Our national security depends on keeping our military strong and prepared for combat outside our borders, as well as supporting smart and strategic policies inside our borders. Real security also involves investment in the intelligence and diplomatic networks necessary to support our our military strategies on the ground. As a national security consultant before I came to Congress, I worked directly to support security strategies in war-torn countries. I believe that success on the battlefield requires the right political strategy combined with accurate intelligence and a well supported military. That is why I am working to ensure that our military is equipped with the resources, equipment, and training necessary to defeat those who want to harm our country.

The conflicts in Iraq and Afghanistan have placed great strain on our military, and I am committed to keeping our active reserve and National Guard forces fit to fight. Consequently, I have supported investments necessary to modernize our weapons systems and training doctrine for the 21st century battlefield.

In addition, our national security demands that we achieve independence from foreign oil during this generation. Past leaders have lacked the courage to do what is necessary to make our country safe in this respect, but I believe it is crucial to avoid sending money overseas to petro-dictators who wish our country harm; and that is one of the primary reasons I supported the American Clean Energy and Security Act.

BILLS SPONSORED OR LETTERS AUTHORED

- 10/8/09: Sponsored: Amendment in the Nature of a Substitute (ANS) to H.R. 2696 (Service Members Rights Protection Act), which augments the list of covered contracts included in the Service Members Civil Relief Act (SCRA), which members of the armed forces are permitted to terminate without penalty as a result of being called to active military service or because of a permanent change of duty station. The ANS list of covered contracts would include telephone, internet, cable and certain utility services that are not available in the new assigned duty station. Status: ANS agreed to be voice voted and further incorporated into H.R. 2696. (H.R. 2696 was later included as a provision of H.R. 3949 (Veterans' Small Business Assistance and Service members Protection Act of 2009), which was passed by the House on 11/3/09.)

- 10/8/09: Sponsored: Amendment in the Nature of a Substitute (ANS) to H.R. 2874 (Helping Active Duty Deployed Act of 2009), which amends the Service members Civil Relief Act to add a cellular phone provision for family plans. As written, before the amendment this bill would allow service members to cancel their phone contract if they were to be deployed or received permanent change of station, but by cancelling their family phone contract it would also cancel services for all family members even if they remain in their current residence where service is provided. Status: ANS agreed to by voice vote and further incorporated into H.R. 2874. (H.R. 2874 was later included as a provision of H.R. 3949 (Veterans' Small Business Assistance and Service members Protection Act of 2009) which was passed by the House on 11/3/09.)

LETTERS CO-SIGNED

- 12/4/09: Co-signed letter to the Secretary of Defense and the Chief of Naval Operation co-authored by Reps. Agriculture Family farms have long been the engine of the economy in Virginia, and especially in the 5th district. Over the past year, I have fought to protect tobacco and dairy farming, two of the most important agricultural sectors in the district. I have opposed overregulation by the FDA of farming, as well as a specific proposal that would harm tobacco farmers by reducing competition between cigarette companies. This has been one of the toughest years for dairy farmers, and I have fought for the Dairy Product Price Support Program. For family farms, I have co-sponsored multiple pieces of legislation to reduce the impact of the estate tax on farmers.

This includes H.R. 4208, which would raise the exemption for the special use valuation of farmland. I also fought to make sure that farmers and ranchers would have a greater role in our nation's energy independence by including a market-based carbon offset program as part of the American Clean Energy and Security Act. Whether producing biodiesel from locally grown grain or bringing produce to market, Virginia's farmers must be supported by both state and federal initiatives. As my tenure in Congress continues, I will keep fighting to protect family farms over corporate agriculture.

BILLS INTRODUCED OR LETTERS AUTHORED

- 5/13/09: Sent a letter to FTC Chairman Liebowitz concerning provisions of the Prevent All Cigarette Trafficking (PACT) Act of 2009, which may grant an anti-trust waiver for the Cigarette Master Settlement Agreement (MSA) litigation settlement from November of 1998. This would reduce competition in the cigarette industry and harm tobacco farmers.
- 7/14/09: Sent multiple letters to members of the Canadian government protesting a bill, Bill C-32, that would ban all flavors in cigarettes, including non-characterizing flavors. This would have a far greater impact on the tobacco industry than the ban on characterizing flavors passed by the United States and was opposed by many members from tobacco-producing districts.
- 9/09/09: Sent a letter to Secretary Sibelius and FDA Commission Hamburg urging them to ensure that provisions of the Family Smoking Prevention and Tobacco Control Act that will protect small manufacturers are properly implemented.
- 12/4/09: Introduced H.R. 4208, which would raise the estate tax exemption for the special use valuation of farmland to $3.5 billion.

SELECTION OF BILLS CO-SPONSORED

Congressman Perriello spoke in support of the resolution and the importance of the hardwoods industry for Central and Southside Virginia. (Link to Press Release)
- 3/31/09: H.R. 1831, the Conservation Easement Incentive Act of 2009, which would make permanent the enhanced tax deduction for land conservation easement donations.
- 7/7/09: H.R. 3050, the American Family Farm and Ranchland Protection Act, which would protect farmland by increasing the tax incentives for land subject to conservation easement.
- 9/29/09: H.R. 3674, the Milk Import Tariff Equity Act, which would update existing tariff-rate quotas to include milk protein concentrate (MPC) and protect domestic dairy farmers.
- 10/7/09: H.R. 3524, the Family Farm Preservation and Conservation Estate Tax Act, which would protect family farms by indefinitely deferring estate taxes on agricultural land as long as that land remains in the family as agricultural land.

- 11/18/09: H.R. 3227, which would amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to permanently extend and expand the charitable deduction for contributions of food inventory. Congressman Perriello also did press on his support of this bill in the district. (Link to Perriello Reports) (Link to news coverage from The Franklin News-Post and NBC 29)

LETTERS CO-SIGNED

- 1/27/09: Signed onto a letter to Speaker Pelosi urging her to support phasing-in the tobacco excise tax increase that would be included in H.R. 2, Children's Health Insurance Program Reauthorization Act of 2009. The act would increase the tobacco excise tax by 61 cents per pack of cigarettes. Congressman Perriello supported phasing in the excise tax over the four years of the bill; 16 cents the first year and 15 cents for each of the next three.
- 7/13/09: Signed onto a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Tom Vilsack urging the USDA to improve the effectiveness of the Dairy Product Price Support Program (DPPSP) to bolster the price of milk. Later that month, Secretary Vilsack announced that they would increase the amount paid for dairy products through the DPPSP, which increased dairy farmers' revenue by $243 million from August through October of 2009.
- 9/14/09: Joined other members of Congress in sending a letter to leaders on the Appropriations Committee expressing support for the recently approved $350 million dairy amendment in the Senate version of the FY2010 Agriculture Appropriations bill, and urging the amendment to be preserved in the conference report. The amendment was protected and Congressman Perriello supported the bill.
- 11/19/09: Joined other members of Congress in sending a letter to Congressional leadership urging an extension of the land conservation tax deduction promoting land conservation easements. This deduction is often the only alternative for family farmers facing difficult economic times other than selling their land for commercial development. The extension was included in the eventual tax extenders bill.

KEY VOTES

- 4/2/09: On agreeing to the Buyer Substitute Amendment to H.R. 1256, the Family Smoking Prevention and Tobacco Control Act. The Buyer Substitute would work to reduce underage smoking without harming the tobacco industry through overregulation. Voted yes.
- 4/2/09: On the motion to recommit on H.R. 1256, the Family Smoking Prevention and Tobacco Control Act. The motion to recommit would restrict the fees assessed by the FDA to the program itself so overregulation couldn't become a slush fund for other government programs. Voted yes.
- 4/2/09: On passage of H.R. 1256, the Family Smoking Prevention and Tobacco Control Act. The bill would harm tobacco farmers by over regulating tobacco farmers. Voted no.

- 6/12/09 H.R. 1256: the Family Smoking Prevention and Tobacco Control Act. Voted no because he believes that the legislation represented an undue regulatory burden on Virginia tobacco producers and smokers. Congressman Perriello joined with a bipartisan group of legislators to offer a substitute amendment that would have accomplished the same goals of H.R. 1256 without unduly punishing tobacco producers and smokers.
- 7/29/09: On motion to suspend the rules and pass H.R. 2749, the Food Safety Enhancement Act of 2009. Voted no because it would give the FDA too much power over farmers and especially hurt smaller family farms.
- 7/30/09: On agreeing to the resolution providing for consideration of H.R. 2749, the Food Safety Enhancement Act of 2009. Voted no because the rule did not allow for amendments to improve the bill.
- 7/30/09: On motion to recommit on H.R. 2749, the Food Safety Enhancement Act of 2009. Congressman Perriello supported this motion to require the FDA to do more for food inspections with preemptive purchase products from producers and to develop a reserve fund to compensate farmers when the FDA's mistakes produce recalls that harm them.
- 7/30/09: On passage of H.R. 2749, the Food Safety Enhancement Act of 2009. Voted no because the bill still did not address his concerns about overregulation of farms by the FDA.
- 12/3/09: On passage of H.R. 4154, the Permanent Estate Tax Relief for Families, Farmers, and Small Businesses Act of 2009. This bill reduces the estate tax beyond 2011 to 45% of the estate's value and increases the exemption from $1 million to $3.5 million. Voted yes.
- 12/9/09: On final passage of H.R. 4213, the Tax Extenders Act of 2009. The bill contained an extension of many expiring tax provisions, including the land conservation tax deduction that Congressman Perriello is working to make permanent. Voted yes.

Second Amendment Rights

I am an avid supporter of an individual's right to bear arms, as well as a proud member of the Congressional Sportsmen's Caucus. I strongly believe in my duty to fight for the protection of all constitutional rights; politicians should not pick and choose which amendments our government will uphold, but rather make sure we uphold them all. I cosponsored the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives (BATFE) Reform and Firearms Modernization Act of 2009, which will reform the BATFE to allow greater flexibility in how gun dealers are punished for violation of the law. I also supported changes to the Omnibus Public Land Management Act to ensure that no provision would be used to limit access to public lands for hunting and fishing. I am continually working to protect the rights of sportsmen to access public lands and pass down their heritage and traditions, and I am honored to stand up to protect the rights of gun owners nationwide and in the 5th district.

SELECTION OF BILLS CO-SPONSORED

- 9/10/09: H.R. 3046, the Hunting Heritage Protection Act. The bill would protect the right of hunters to access public lands by requiring public land management practices ensure that there is no net loss of public lands for hunting.
- 10/7/09: H.R. 3749, the Recreational Fishing and Hunting Heritage and Opportunities Act. The bill would require that public lands planning evaluate the effects of management alternatives on sportsmen's activities and recognizes the Sport Fishing and Boating Partnership Council and the Sporting Conservation Council as policy advisors on issues relevant to the wildlife conservation and sportsmen's communities. The bill also assures that the states' authority to manage fish and wildlife on federal public lands is preserved and that the states have the exclusive authority to require licenses or permits of sportsmen.

LETTERS CO-SIGNED

- 3/13/09: Co-signed a bipartisan letter to President Obama opposing reimplementation of the assault-weapons ban from the 1990s. The letter stated, "Despite what the Attorney General might think, 'making the assault weapons ban permanent' would not be permitted under the Supreme Court's DC v. Heller decision. It would be an infringement of our right to keep and bear arms as expressly described by the Second Amendment." (Link to press release) Congressman Perriello was also a co-signer of another letter of just House Democrats to Attorney General Eric Holder with a similar message sent on March 17, 2009.
- 10/6/09: Signed onto a letter with Congressmen Minnick, Latta, and others, to request the House Appropriations Committee retains Senate Amendment 1447 in the DHS conference Report. This bipartisan amendment was added to the Senate bill to clarify that assisted-opening knives, used by over 35 million Americans, are exempted from regulation under the Federal Switchblade Act of 1958. This was supported by the NRA.
- 11/23/09: Joined an historic number of Members of Congress in support the Second Amendment in a congressional amicus brief sent to the Supreme Court regarding the case of McDonald v. City of Chicago. This brief, supported by the National Rifle Association and signed by 251 Members of Congress and 58 Senators, marks the greatest number of signees for a congressional brief in the history of the Supreme Court.

KEY VOTES

- 3/11/09: S. 22, the Omnibus Public Land Management Act, as amended by Congressman Altmire to ensure that no provision would be used to limit access to public lands for hunting and fishing. Voted yes. (Link to Press Release)
- 3/25/09: Ordering the previous question on H. Res. 280, the rule for consideration of the Omnibus Public Land Management Act, and preventing an amendment from being offered that would end the National Parks Service's restrictions on the possession of firearms. Voted no.
- 5/22/09: Concurring to Sec. 512 of Senate Amendment to the Credit Cardholders' Bill of Rights Act of 2009 to protect the possession of firearms in National Parks in line with the existing policies of other public land agencies. Voted yes.

OTHER

- During debate on the Omnibus Public Land Management Act, Congressman Perriello rose in support of the Altmire amendment, which states in part that: "Nothing in this title shall be construed as affecting access for recreational activities otherwise allowed by law or regulation, including hunting, fishing, or trapping." ALBEMARLE COUNTY

I grew up in Albemarle County, and have benefitted from its quality of life, including its schools and its great outdoors. A challenge in the county, however, is the availability of affordable housing. The community is fortunate to have volunteers and non-profits working to address this critical need for shelter. One of those non-profits, the Piedmont Housing Alliance, contacted my office in July 2009 because they needed help working with the federal government to finalize a project that would provide housing for seniors. Working together, we overcame the obstacles and the project, once completed, will provide affordable homes for 66 area seniors.

APPOMATTOX COUNTY

Rep. Perriello learns about how federal stimulus money is being used to restore historic buildings at Appomattox Court House National Park.

Appomattox County is well-known as the location where General Robert E. Lee surrendered to General Ulysses S. Grant, thus ending the Civil War and reuniting a nation. The 150th anniversary—the sesquicentennial—of that momentous event will occur in 2015. The county is hoping to leverage the attention that will be focused on the community into a source for job creation and economic growth. If all goes as planned, this historic site will attract visitors from around the globe. To respond to this influx of tourists, a hospitality industry could flourish in the region as businesses move to respond to the needs of these guests to the region. I am working with the National Park Service and the community to make sure we are well-positioned to take full advantage of this upcoming opportunity.

BEDFORD COUNTY AND CITY

Located atop a tall hill, just outside the city of Bedford, stands one of our true national treasures, the National D-Day Memorial. Since the dedication of this monument, thousands have made the journey to Bedford to pay tribute to our brave Americans who stormed the beaches of France more than 65 years ago. When I learned that the D-Day Memorial did not have sufficient funding to sustain its operations, I introduced legislation that would begin the process to bring the Memorial under the supervision of the National Park Service and keep it from closing. Not only is the memorial a moving and fitting tribute to those who sacrificed to preserve our liberty during World War II, but visitors to the site help boost the economy of the area, helping to create jobs.

BRUNSWICK COUNTY

On September 8, 2009, the Brunswick community was shaken by the news that the Commonwealth was planning to close the Brunswick Correctional Center. While trying to address that loss, the county is also working to diversify its local economy. Seeking to benefit from the county’s rich heritage, the community is promoting its historic sites to attract tourists and the jobs that come with them. I was honored to attend the dedication of Fort

Christanna on April 25, 2009 and was pleased to visit the future site of the Visitor and Interpretive Center and to write a letter of support for funding for this worthy project. The region’s Tobacco Heritage Trail is being developed using $6 million from the Recovery Act. And the town of Lawrenceville is upgrading its water system, using an additional $715,000 from the Recovery Act, to lay a firm foundation for continued economic development efforts.

BUCKINGHAM COUNTY

Situated between the James and Appomattox Rivers, Buckingham County is perhaps best known for the high quality of slate which has been quarried there for generations. Today, one of these former quarries is being used to improve our national security. HI-TEST Laboratories, Inc., the county's third largest private employer, is helping to develop our nation's next-generation submarine program. I was pleased to help them secure $2 million to advance their work, which

CAMPBELL COUNTY

As Campbell County continues to grow, like many of the rural counties I represent, it needs broadband internet access to remain on the cutting edge of today's national marketplace. Companies seeking to locate or expand in our communities need the communication and technological benefits that broadband access provides, so it is critical for job growth. It is also important for improving the quality of life of our citizens, who deserve the same access to civic, educational and recreational benefits of the internet as others in our country receive. In May, I held a forum with citizens in Altavista to discuss how to expand access. I was able to secure $220,000 to explore the benefits of providing WiMAX broadband internet service across the region, to include not only Campbell county but eight other counties in the 5th district as well.

CHARLOTTE COUNTY

The decline in manufacturing has left many in Charlotte County without decent jobs that can support a family. Seeking to bring jobs back to the region, the community is working hard to attract the Commonwealth's next correctional facility, which is expected to create roughly 600 jobs. To accommodate the new facility, the Town of Drakes Branch needs to upgrade its water and wastewater treatment capacity. During visits with local leaders, including a quick driving tour to the site, I have stressed my willingness to help and have worked with the town, the county and USDA to secure the necessary funding to move the project forward.

CHARLOTTESVILLE

Rep. Perriello discusses composting and local farming at QCC's Urban Garden

Charlottesville can be a center for the new energy economy, which will provide jobs in new businesses while improving our environment and reducing our dependence of foreign oil. I have met with individuals running small businesses, in city government and at the University of Virginia who are all focused on taking advantage of the new energy revolution. People in Charlottesville are working on an innovative design for new wind turbines to better harness that energy; new business models to make solar energy more available, new approaches to making homes and businesses more energy efficient and new technology to advance the production of electric cars. The city, for example, is using funds from the Recovery Act to create a revolving loan fund so people can weatherize their homes, with the homeowners repaying the with their energy savings. We are pushing for local residents to be trained to install the energy upgrades to address the issue of chronic underemployment that exists in the city, thereby both creating jobs for local citizens and reducing our environmental impact on the globe.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY

Cumberland County is searching for new opportunities to bring economic growth to the area. Using $2,000,000 in funds from the Recovery Act, the county purchased the historic Cumberland Community Center. With its history dating back to 1919, the property stands as a landmark for civil rights in education in the community, serving as the first high school for African-American children in Cumberland County. The property has also been used as an elementary, middle, and high school at one time or another until 2007 when a new middle and high school facility opened its doors. The building currently houses a number of different entities, such as the local departments of social services and recreation, charity organizations like Meals on Wheels and Clothes Closet, and multi-purpose rooms to handle community groups and activities. In addition, approximately 13 acres of land remain vacant and ready for possible development. In keeping with the Vision Statement created for the community center, the county has stated it will “use this wonderful resource to foster new business, social, cultural, and recreational opportunities for the county.”

DANVILLE

Danville has a proud history as a center for manufacturing and tobacco processing, and the vestiges of that past still exist along the banks of the magnificent Dan River. Living in a city that straddles a river, however, presents a unique set of challenges. Since 1998, Danville has been trying to expand the Robertson Bridge, which is a choke point in the city's transportation network. The bottleneck is not only inconvenient to residents but it hampers economic growth. The day I was sworn in, I instructed my District Director to visit all 22 localities in the Congressional District to discuss their specific needs and projects. He had his first meeting the next day, and it was with Danville's City Manager. Not surprisingly, the first project he requested was the replacement of the Robertson Bridge. Using funding made available by the American Recovery and Reinvestment that I supported, we were able to secure $28.9 million needed to replace the Robertson Bridge and make this major economic priority a reality.

FLUVANNA COUNTY

For more than a decade, Fluvanna County has been growing rapidly as people are drawn to its natural beauty, historic sites and Lake Monticello. The county has embarked on a forward-looking capital improvement program to rehabilitate its existing schools and build a new high school to accommodate the growing population. While obvious changes are happening to the school buildings, Fluvanna's superintendent is also working on innovative approaches within the schools. I was pleased to host a meeting among U.S. Education Secretary Arne Duncan and school superintendents from around the district, including Dr. Tom Smith from Fluvanna. I wanted the Secretary to see the progress smaller schools in more rural districts can make in educating our children. Dr. Smith and the others at the meeting impressed the Secretary with approaches that can allow our smaller schools to make a national impact.

FRANKLIN COUNTY

Like communities across our nation, Franklin County has infrastructure needs that cannot be met by the locality alone. I have met with county leaders about their needs, and they told me that one of their top priorities is the replacement of the Clements Mill Bridge. The bridge has been closed since the summer of 2005, causing not only substantial inconvenience for residents but risks

GREENE COUNTY

As one of the Commonwealth's smallest county, Greene faces unique challenges upgrading and renovating existing infrastructure. During my visits to Greene, community leaders have stressed the importance of upgrading the water and wastewater facilities in Stanardsville, the county seat. They also have stressed the need for increased access to broadband internet service, which is critical to meet the area's educational and economic development needs. The improvements to these essential services will not only benefit the residents of the town, but can help attract new industries and with them, new jobs.

HALIFAX COUNTY

Rep. Perriello discusses public safety with North Halifax Volunteer Firefighters

To bring jobs back to the region, Halifax County has an extensive vision for economic development. They are working at making their towns, like Halifax and South Boston, into economic engines, building off the successes they are experiencing at Riverstone Technology Park and the Virginia International Raceway. In my first meeting with local representatives, however, they identified the lack of adequate wastewater treatment capacity as a major obstacle to their efforts to bring more jobs to the area. They have been working on the project for the last decade, and I am pleased to support their efforts.

Using funding from the Recovery Act, which I supported, the U.S. Department of Agriculture is close to finalizing financing on the $18 million project.

LUNENBURG COUNTY

Known as “The Old Free State,” Lunenburg County has a distinctively independent spirit and is home to beautiful farmland and forests. With hardwood being an important industry to the county, I was proud to support a resolution in Congress to recognize the importance of the U.S. hardwood industry and encourage that American hardwood be given full consideration in any program directed at constructing environmentally preferable commercial, public, or private buildings. American-grown hardwoods, including those from Lunenburg County, are an abundant and sustainable resource that can be part of a vibrant new green economy. As an Eagle Scout, I was also proud to present at a Court of Honor ceremony for Darius and Marsalis Banks, twin brothers who became the first African-American Eagle Scouts from the county.

MARTINSVILLE AND HENRY COUNTY

Henry County has developed a diverse approach for recruiting and growing jobs in the region. In addition to investing in Commonwealth Crossing—a well-situated industrial park—the community is also looking to take advantage of the natural resources that surround the region. By increasing outdoor recreational opportunities, the county hopes not only to improve the quality of life for residents, but also attract tourists and companies seeking to locate where they can offer a high quality of life for their prospective employees. One project is the expansion of the Smith River trail, which provides outdoor enjoyment for hikers, bicyclists, and outdoor enthusiasts from the region and beyond. I was pleased to help secure $300,000 to construct a paved 4.5 mile segment of the trail along an abandoned rail corridor. Philpott Lake is another amenity that has been largely untapped. To unlock the economic potential of the lake, major upgrades are required. I was pleased that the Recovery Act provided $3,750,000 to improve the recreational opportunities at the lake and improving its ability to produce low cost electricity.

Martinsville is working hard at retooling its economy after a decade of devastation. The city is undertaking a major effort at Uptown revitalization, and I was pleased to be able to play a small part by locating the first Congressional office in the new Uptown area. More broadly, the city is simultaneously trying to recruit and grow new industries while training a new workforce. Patrick Henry Community College received $300,000 in federal funds for its innovative Middle College Program to discourage high school truancy and dropout, encourage enrollment in higher education and provide career readiness training to prepare the workforce for jobs in area businesses. The New College Institute provides a promising avenue for those aspiring to college, and in addition will provide another economic engine to fuel job growth in the region as it grows. Job training, however, must go hand-in-hand with job creation. I was pleased to help a new local employer secure $2,400,000 in federal funding to support approximately 30 positions in the Martinsville and Henry County area, offering the opportunity for local college graduates to find challenging employment, fulfilling a national need, without relocating.

Rep. Perriello visits clean energy projects in Martinsville-Henry County

Martinsville-Henry County finds itself at the precipice of another community reinvention. Complementing diverse strategies related to entrepreneurship, tourism and workforce development, a component of this reinvention could be a true redefinition of manufacturing-related job growth in Martinsville-Henry County.

MECKLENBURG COUNTY

Rep. Perriello participates in groundbreaking at Lake Country Education Center

Kerr Lake in Mecklenburg County provides not only a wonderful recreational opportunity for the people who live in the community, but provides an opportunity for further economic development. Together with the $6 million investment in the Tobacco Heritage Trail we were able to secure, improvements at Kerr Lake should bring more tourists to the region, along with the spending they bring with them. To help enhance the recreational amenities at the lake, the Recovery Act provided $7,250,000 to upgrade those facilities, including the funding of major improvements at North Bend Park. Along with state partners, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is developing a master plan which will help identify how to make the 50,000 acres of public land in the area a more substantial recreational destination and a more productive economic engine.

NELSON COUNTY

While Nelson County has shown great strides in growth and economic development, there is a continued need for economic development in the southern part of the County and a pressing need for access to quality, affordable health care, especially in rural areas. The Blue Ridge Medical Center addresses this need for countless citizens in Nelson County. I have visited the center multiple times and have seen for myself the reception area teeming with people receiving medical care. In fact, last year over 2,000 new patients sought care at BRMC, for a total of 9,255

Rep. Perriello meets with local officials at economic recovery roundtable in Lovingson patients served. This year, an average of 150 new patients a month continue walk in the door. To meet the increasing health care demands in Nelson County and the surrounding communities, Blue Ridge Medical Center has received $5,000,000 from the Recovery Act, which I supported, to expand their facilities. Not only will this provide more people with access to quality health care, but it will also provide employment for people as the new building is completed.

PITTSYLVANIA COUNTY

Rep. Perriello discusses clean energy and agriculture with U.S. Secretaries Vilsack and Chu at community forum in Blairs

For centuries, farming has provided jobs for the citizens of Pittsylvania County. As we work to reduce our nation's dangerous dependence on foreign oil, farmers in the region are thinking about producing not just food, fiber and tobacco, but also energy. The Secretaries of Agriculture and Energy toured the area in July 2009 to see the promise of the region for advancing the new energy economy. We have been working with Van Der Hyde dairy, who discussed with the Secretaries their plans for converting tons of manure into electricity. In Gretna, the Secretaries saw the biorefinery built by Piedmont BioProducts, which has the capacity to take a feedstock grown by neighbors and convert it into heating oil and other valuable byproducts of refining, like precursors to plastics and carbon fibers. To aid the effort to find the most valuable feedstock for farmers to grow, I helped the Institute for Sustainable and Renewable Resources receive $502,000 to generate high-value plants and feedstocks for bio-based energy and biomass-based products. In addition to protecting the county's farming heritage, there is a continued need to support emerging small businesses and high-quality schools to move the economy forward. I will also be working hard to make sure we have improved water infrastructure in the county so they don't lose jobs and can attract new ones.

PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY

In Virginia's heartland, Prince Edward County has a stable, diversified economy that benefits from a strong hospital, two higher-education institutions, natural beauty, and a rich history. The county recently dedicated its Light of Reconciliation, acknowledging the county's role in closing its schools rather than integrate them. The Light of Reconciliation, in the bell tower of the Prince Edward County Courthouse, is a permanent monument created to honor the memory of the historic events in Prince Edward County during the era of public school segregation, to recognize the role of local students in ending school discrimination in Virginia and across the United States and to call on each of us to shine our own Light of Reconciliation in the world. Using its past to promote its future, Prince Edward's historic High Bridge is the centerpiece of the High Bridge Trail State Park. The trail is designed to be a premiere shared-use path for hikers, bikers and horseback riders and will not only provide outdoor recreational opportunities to citizens of the region, but should also attract guests from outside the region, and the job growth they bring with them. I was pleased that $2 million from the Recovery Act, which I supported, will be used to expand the trail and improve the park. Additional jobs can come to the region through investments in Longwood University as it expands its role as an economic driver in the area, both providing jobs and preparing the workforce. Similarly, STEPS, Inc. provides manufacturing jobs and jobs training for people with disabilities. I was pleased to help secure $300,000 to ensure that their job training and manufacturing plant on Industrial Park Road will be structurally sound as they continue this mission.

Congressional Record Statement on the Dedication of Light of Reconciliation Memorial:
(Link to Statement)

Mr. PERRIELLO. Madam Speaker, today I wish to commemorate the official unveiling and dedication of the Light of Reconciliation Memorial in Prince Edward County, Virginia. The Light of Reconciliation, in the bell tower of the Prince Edward County Courthouse, is a permanent monument created to honor the memory of the historic events in Prince Edward County during the era of public school segregation, to recognize the role of local students in ending school discrimination in Virginia and across the United States and to call on each of us to shine our own Light of Reconciliation in the world.

In 1951, a group of dedicated high school students led by Barbara Rose Johns organized a strike to protest the disgraceful condition of Robert Russa Moton High School in Farmville, Virginia. The school lacked a gymnasium, a cafeteria, heat, desks, blackboards, and in some cases even classrooms: a school bus parked outside served as one classroom for the overcrowded and underfunded school. The student strike ultimately led to Davis v. County School Board of Prince Edward County, one of the five court cases that would make up Brown v. Board of Education. The Davis case was the only one of the five to arise from student activism. Following the Supreme Court's decision that "separate educational facilities are inherently unequal," Prince Edward County closed its public schools for the years of 1959 to 1964 rather than allow black and white students to attend school together. After five years and the Supreme Court decision in Griffin v. County School Board, the schools were finally reopened and integrated. The Light of Reconciliation and the memorial stand as both a reminder of the mistakes of the past and a celebration of the students from R.R. Moton High School and from other schools across the country who continued the fight for education for all.

Today marks the 50th anniversary of the action that would close the Prince Edward County public schools, one of the darkest moments of Virginia's civil rights struggle. Acknowledging this part our history is painful, and I commend the Prince Edward County Board of Supervisors for their courage in publicizing past transgressions against our fellow citizens in hopes of preventing future ones. It is only in seeking truth about our past that we can hope to pursue justice for our future, and this memorial is a public expression of our renewed commitment to justice for all.

On this occasion we are reminded that each of us is called to work to bring our nation closer to its fundamental ideals of equality. If one 16-year-old student can spark the protests that would ultimately galvanize a nation in the cause of civil rights, we should all ask of ourselves what we can do to fight for human dignity and the common good. As long as inequality and suffering persist in our nation and in the world, our work is incomplete. This memorial not only looks back to the dreams deferred by locked schoolhouse doors, but also forward to a better nation, one of ever-expanding opportunity for all. Martin Luther King Jr. once said, "Darkness cannot drive out darkness; only light can do that." Let this light in Prince Edward County, Virginia be a permanent reminder of our ongoing struggle for a fairer world.

Constituent Services Summary

One of the most important parts of my job is to assist constituents with any issues or problems they are facing when dealing with federal government agencies. The caseworkers in my offices in Charlottesville, Danville, Farmville, and Martinsville helped nearly 800 5th district residents in 2009 cut through government red tape and solve individual, sometime complex, problems with federal agencies.

Here are the kinds of cases we helped with and some of the stories behind the numbers.

-Congressman Tom Perriello

Types of Constituent Cases Handled in 2009:

Veterans:

A Vietnam War veteran from Danville was hospitalized in the Salem Veterans Administration Hospital for about two weeks in 2008. Before he was discharged, his doctor told him he would not be able to work full-time due to his permanent service-related medical problems. Early in January 2009, he contacted my office, which kept him informed of what was going on while his claim was being reviewed. It was possible that the VA might turn down his claim, but in early July, the much-anticipated letter arrived from the VA approving his claim with the extra benefit of it being permanent and total. This means he doesn't have to be reevaluated every few years. The celebration didn't last too long though. Two days later after getting the great news, this gentleman's wife learned that she was losing her job of 11 years. She would have to pay close to $400 a month for health insurance under COBRA, but getting the added VA benefit allowed her to get new insurance through the VA, and keep the same doctors who she's seen for years.

Military:

A young lady from Buckingham County had enlisted in the Army at the beginning of her senior year of high school. As a reward for her early enlistment, she was promised a sign-on bonus of $15,000. Unfortunately, by the end of her senior year, she had to undergo an emergency appendectomy, and while she didn't know it at the time, that disqualified her for military induction for a six-month period following the operation. Because she would not be eligible to join until after the 365-day anniversary of her original signature, the Army told her she would lose all of her bonus money. She was told she must sign on all over again (with no bonuses) if she still wanted to join the Army.

When my staff first spoke to Army officials (from the recruiter to the Pentagon), they told him there was absolutely nothing that could be done. I wrote a letter to Fort Knox appealing the decision on behalf of my constituent. Days later, the same sergeant called both the young woman and my staffer to apologize, and told us that in his 25 years he'd never seen the Army reverse course on this matter. In response to my letter, orders came down from Fort Knox, and she was guaranteed a new contract, including all the money she was promised, and immediate induction into the Army.

Social Security:

A 70 year-old woman from Albemarle County received a letter from her insurance company saying her supplemental insurance had been cancelled because the Social Security Administration had reported her as deceased. Needless to say, she was shocked, scared her Social Security benefits may be affected, and confused about where to turn. My office immediately talked to the local SSA offices and straightened out the error. As she put it, we had her "brought back to life" in no time and her benefits were not affected.

Health Care:

A woman from Nelson County who retired at age 62 was expecting to receive her Medicare Card at age 65 (the official retirement age), but she never received one. Medicare was deducting a monthly premium from her benefits check each month since she reached retirement age, but they refused to send her a card or provide her with benefits. After a long time trying to figure out why she was being denied service, the woman discovered that her Social Security number and identity had been stolen, affecting her status with Medicare. She and her husband came to my office desperate because she needed medical care and previous claims submitted to Medicare had been denied. They could no longer pay for her medical care out of pocket without knowing they would ever be reimbursed by Medicare. Our office worked with Medicare, and within a few days the matter was resolved. She is now receiving Medicare benefits as she deserves.

Taxes/IRS:

A gentleman in Pittsylvania County had been trying to obtain an Earned Income Credit (EIC) from the IRS since March of 2009. The paperwork with the IRS was backlogged and he could not get the money owed to him. When he came to us by the end of October, we started working on his case with the IRS. By November's end, his case was resolved and he has received $1,650.48 for the EIC.

Immigration:

This year, I had the honor of speaking at the annual Naturalization Ceremony at Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, on Independence Day. I was thrilled that three of my constituents who had been working towards citizenship were included in the ceremony. The citizenship status allowed one woman to travel to visit a dying family member at an urgent time. It was a special moment for me to administer the Oath of Citizenship to my constituents as they had the proud experience of becoming U.S. citizens.

Passports:

A family from Campbell County contacted my office with an urgent request for passport assistance. The father had received the opportunity of a lifetime to travel on business to a foreign country and he wanted to bring his wife and newborn baby with him. They had applied for a passport for the four-month-old to accompany them, but the application was returned because both parents had not signed the application. By the time they would have re-applied, it would have been too late to make the scheduled trip (they contacted us on June 26 and their flight was scheduled for June 30). My office contacted the Passport Office who agreed to let us expedite the passport application. They did not have to reapply or pay additional fees. They made their flight in time and had a wonderful trip.

Flag Requests:

My office helps 5th district residents with requests for flags flown over the U.S. Capitol building for special occasions and to honor loved ones. One very special request came from a woman in Martinsville, who asked that a flag be flown on the fifth anniversary of her son's death. Her son, Lance Corporal Demarkus D. Brown, was 22 when he was killed while serving in Iraq's Anbar province. After the flag was flown on the U.S. Capitol, it was placed permanently on the flagpole dedicated in his honor at Laurel Park Middle School in Martinsville.

Looking Ahead

Given the economic crisis we faced last January, few would have been optimistic enough to predict a stabilized economy and a stock market above 10,000. But these promising signs should not be taken to mean our problems are solved – far from it. I am going to redouble my focus this year on economic development, from the micro level of business and workforce growth opportunities in the district to the macro problem of breaking up the Washington–Wall Street collusion that is choking out small and medium-sized American business. We must expand local opportunities to rebrand our part of the Commonwealth and get ahead of the next big economic boom. At the same time, however, we must address the skyrocketing debt, systemic risk, and infrastructure needs that will impact consumer and investor confidence and get this economy moving again.

I share with many a concern about the health of capitalism in our country, but my diagnosis is not that we have a government takeover of business but rather that the financial sector has too much control over the public sector. With this capture, the biggest players are doubling as the referees on the field, producing an economy that rewards failure, stymies innovation, and creates perverse incentives for systemic risk and for bigger over better. Both parties seem to begin and end the jobs debate with how to bail out the financial sector instead of investing in real economic development and pinning down a strategy to outcompete the rest of the world. I will continue fighting with all of my might to shift our national focus from speculators on Wall Street to job creation on Main Street.

I remain bullish on Southside Virginia. I believe we are in a strong position to transform our district from yesterday's furniture and textile capital into tomorrow's energy and automotive capital. We can grow diversified economic foundations with a strong infrastructure, broadband, and a focus on small and medium-sized innovation companies. We can invest in early childhood development, as well as our colleges, research facilities, and skills training centers. We can reinvent this area to invite tourism based on our history, our heritage trails, our natural beauty, and our outdoor recreation. We can see data processing and tele-work flourish in a low-cost environment, and we can rebuild advanced manufacturing. Our farmers can become the freedom fighters in our struggle for energy independence, and we can shift more of our capital from big banks far away to local community banks and credit unions.

In every county, I have met with local officials, business leaders and educators full of great ideas for economic revival, and these suggestions guide my work in Washington. These ideas do not belong to either party but to the people who deserve better from their government. I am proud of the strides we have made this year, but I am even more excited about what we can accomplish together in the year ahead. We will forge ahead with a laser-like focus on jobs and competitive advantage, and we will work as a strong federal partner to these great local initiatives. The double shift will continue.

According to Perriello, Greene County schools should get $940,000 from the national stimulus package. OPINION

A good gamble (February 20, 2009)

“The stimulus bill includes tax cuts and sends billions of dollars to the states and their local governments. The immediate benefit of the stimulus will probably be extended unemployment benefits because that’s money that will be spent quickly. Stimulus money will also help states pay for basic government services such as education, law enforcement, health care, roads and transportation. Local governments in the Dan River Region — and around the country — already have wish lists of infrastructure projects they want funded. Those local wish lists include a bridge, water lines and an industrial park — hardly the stuff of wasteful government spending...The stimulus bill is far from perfect. But that federal stimulus money — if spent wisely — could really help this community for years to come.” (Danville Register & Bee)

A bridge that only the feds could build (September 14, 2009)

“We know local drivers will like the new Robertson Bridge. That’s because the new bridge has been designed to fix today’s problems and handle tomorrow’s growth. After years of reviews by engineers, it represents the most bang for the buck possible... The question is how local people will see it. A few still argue that the new bridge wasn’t needed. But the people stuck in traffic around that bridge every day — and the traffic engineers — know better. Fair people will give Perriello the credit he deserves for working hard for this community, even if they don’t support everything he has done or will do over the next year. The question is how many people who don’t like Perriello and didn’t support the ARRA will still drive on the new Robertson Bridge — and think nothing of it.” (Danville Register & Bee)

A Hand Up in Nelson for Health Care (December 15, 2009)

“Thanks to the federal stimulus package, the county’s Blue Ridge Medical Center will get $5 million to help treat an increasing number of patients. The grant announced by the White House will mean more medical services, including programs of care for children and the elderly, for county residents...Good health care is important to every community across America. In Nelson County, thanks to the federal economic stimulus program, good health care — especially for low-income and uninsured residents — will become better in the years ahead.” (Lynchburg News & Advance)
